Hoar, asking to be permitted to decline the invitation to eulogize President Mc-Kinley. In the course of his letter Senator Hoar refers to the fact that he will be extremely busy the next few weeks, but if business was the only reason he should endeavor to overcome it. Continuing, he

"But I ought in frankness to state another and even stronger reason. I think the eulogy on the President should be delivered by some person who was in full accord with him on the principal political measures of his administration. I never questioned his absolute sincerity, his devotion to the public welfare, his love of liberty and his desire to do his duty as God gave him to see it. I was fully in accord with him on the great fiscal policy in which | and more the impracticability, if not the he was identified. The case involved the question as to whether an insurance policy goes into effect on the date of the application for it or when the policy is delivered. In this instance the application was made on Dec. 12, 1893, and the policy was delivered on in the matter of the payment of the second | velt this afternoon. They talked for a grace if it was to be computed from Dec. Indianapolis. 12, or eight days before its expiration, computing it from the 26th of December, the anniversary of the delivery of the premium. Waldek Czolgocz, brother of the murderer, foreseeing endless difficulties and possibly angry demonstrations as the result of an attempt to give the body ordinary burial, heeded the advice of the Superintendent of State Prisons Collins and Warden Mead and formally relinquished all claim to it. He merely stipulated that at the close of the autopsy all parts of the body should be buried. All chance of an unhappy and unfortunate sequel to the execution, either in displays of popular contempt or the exhibition of ghastly relics, is, therefore, finally prevented. The plan of burning his clothing and papers will be carried out immediately after the execution.

The electrical machine is ready for its work, Auburn Prison is carefully guarded, the city is in its normal calm and thera seem to be no circumstances standing in the way of the successful and expeditious

That the father of the assassin has become entirely indifferent as to the fate of his son, or else does not realize the terrible penalty that he must undergo, is very evident. An incident that happened while on his way to his home in the Polish district this evening is of interest. A little newsboy hopped onto the car and cried out the evening papers, featuring as an inducement to buy the electrocution of Leon Czolgocz in Auburn prison to-morrow. He spoke directly to the old man, but if he understood, he showed not the least sign of consciousness that the matter in any way concerned him. The ing the great prosperity of 1892, when the government will soon be compelled to make total was $566,529,971. The increase this year over 1900 is $18,754,510, and continued general prosperity will probably make next year's assessment the highest on record. In this connection it is interesting to note that the assessment of Illinois was also announced last week and that the total of that State is $890,665,283, or little more than once and a half the total assessment of lowa, and that, too, when the new census shows that Illinois had 4,821,550 and lowa 2,231,853 inhabitants in 1900. Illinois has more than twice the number of the inhabitants of lowa and the acreage of Illinois is much larger than that of Iowa. Chicago alone has nearly as many inhabitants and as much wealth as order: Mercier, 20 to 1; Major Dangerfield, all Iowa; and Illinois has about 2,000 miles more railroad than lowa. These facts show that Iowa is assessed at a higher percentage of real value than Illinois. The assessment of 1901 makes the taxable wealth of lowa $2,234,033,076, which is four times the assessment on the 5 per cent, basis. This year's assessment also shows that lowa will have nearly double the present surplus cash in its treasury next year at this time, if next winter's Legislature is as economical as it should be. Iowa is the leading State and it has the model State government of the
